

Ricardo Ulate Chacón

Ricardo Ulate Chacón is a Specialist in International Relations. He held several posts in the Ministry of Environment and Energy in Costa Rica from 1992 until 2005. He started working in the Wildlife Division, and later he was part of the group that establish the National System of Areas for Conservation (Sistema Nacional de Areas de Conservación, SINAC) where he worked in the several departments, including Operations, International Cooperation and Quality. Later he became the Director of Cooperation and International Relations, where he had to follow-up on the main international forums on environment and sustainable development. He has been working as an environmental consultant for more than 3 years for the National Fund for Forest Finance (Fondo Nacional de Financiamiento Forestal, FONAFIFO), the National Forestry Office, the Ministry of Environment and Energy (through the United Nations Development Programme), Conservation International, among others. Currently, he is working as a consultant for Costa Rica's Paz con la Naturaleza Initiative and for Conservation International, on themes related to environmental policy, payment for environmental services and climate change.